In these sessions learn the four skills you need to succeed at university: communication, problem solving, teamwork and adaptability. Learn how to avoid the mistakes that first year students make. Discover how to mobilize professors to boost your success.

Skills for success at university, work and life

Tuesday, January 7, 2020
Will be held in 014 McLaughlin College JCR from 11:45 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Practical problem solving and strengthening critical skills

Tuesday, February 4, 2020
Will be held in 140 McLaughlin College from Noon to 1:30 p.m.

Thomas Klassen is a professor and author who teaches about, and writes on, public policy and public administration and how to ensure students succeed. He has taught in a variety of programs, including the School of Public Policy and Administration, the IMBA at the Schulich School of Business, the Department of Political Science, and the Faculty of Health. He has also taught university courses in South Korea and Germany. More at: https://www.thomasklassen.net/

Everyone is Welcome